However, Xenia is not the only city motorists are not immure from arrest when they visit other cities. The difference between cases of the arrest of local men in other cities and the arrests made in Xenia, are that in the major part the arrest or crude "balling out" given local motorists in other cities is generally due to non observance of the peculiar traffic here arrests are made only in cases of violation of a state law that every automobile driver should be acquaint ed with.

An example of this is the treat ment given John W. Prugh of this city by a traffic cop in Cincinnati who "balled him out" unmercifully for honking his horn while driving through Cincinnati streets. In his flailing of the local man he referred Findlay, Aug. 23.—The striking of to him as a "rube" for not having a flowing oil well, near Rising Sun, knowledge of a law that is an exact marks the "comeback" of the old opposite of anything ever taught to Northwestern oil field, according to a machine drivers as a lesson to safe guard life and property. Columbus, O., Aug. 23.-Appar ently bread prices here will not be matter that from time immemorial changed soon, despite the arrest of five local bakers charged with violating the Valentine ant-trust act by controling and raising prices. The indicted bakers are expected to put up legal fights. They claim they have done nothing wrong. Proseuting Attorney Schlesinger claimed that bakers in the alleged combine sell to grocers for 9 cents pound loaves retailing at 11 cents and charge the grocers 12 cents for a pound and a half loaf retailing at 16 cents while independent bakers are selling for a penny less on each

According to Schlesinger, the in dicted bakers tried to coerce independent bakers to raise prices. He claimed prices were advanced by all indicted companies at the same time and that the cost of flour dropped when bread prices went up.

COUNTY ORGANIZES FOR DRY CAMPAIGN

Not every one has yet found out that Ohio is scheduled for another wet and dry campaign this year in spite of the fact of the progress of prohibition. The brewers have filed proposals for four issues this election, and the Secretary of State will place them upon the ballot. These four propositions are as follows. First, they propose an Amendment to repeal State Prohibition, and restore the former license system with its laws. Second, they have an amendment to define -an intoxical ing drink as being that only which contains more than 2.75 per cent alcohol. Third, they have filed a Referendum on the principal enforce ment bill passed by the Legislature Fourth, they have filed with the Sec. retary of State a petition for a Referendum on the ratification of the National Prohibition Amendment

Greene county does not intend to be behind in the campaign to decide that prohibition has come to stay in state and nation. At a meeting held Thursday night at the home of Mrs Mary L. Collins, the following officers were elected to head the Dry Federation, Pres., Rev. H. G Biddlecum; Vice-Pres., Dr Ben R. McClellan; Secretary, Mrs. Charles Dean; Assist ant Sec., Mary L. Collins; Treas., R E. Bryson, Headquarters for the campaign will be in the old place in room 2 in the Y. M. C A. Building. An attempt is being made to secure a local man for County Manager of the campaign, and announcement will be ready in a few days.

The personnel of the County Executive Committee from the various townships is as follows, in addition to the officers named above: Xenia City, Charles H. Ervin, R. E. Holmes Robert Kelble, J. According to speciai agents for the American Express Company here, who have the case in charge, O'Rourke will be brought back immediately to face charges which will be filed in the feceral courts here. According to the operatives who have been working on the case, O'Rourke's home is in Cleveland although just prior to the robbery he had spent some time in Toledo.

About the time of the robbery, ac cording to evidence secured by detectives, O'Rourke went to Akron with an automobile, acting ostensibly as an automobile salesman. Following the theft it is charged that O'Rourke, Monroe and the woman in the case, who passed by the name of Watson in Akron, motored to Cleveland and remained here some days.

Harry O'Rourke, a brother, is already under arrest, according to officials and while they declined to discuss the possibility it is reported that other arrests are imminent in the

EZRA PROVED TRUE PROPHET

His Prediction That Funeral and Marriage Were Before Him Turned Out to Be Exact.

Last week a friend drifted in from the Old Home Town, now 20 years 2 back of me, and we had a season of gossip about the old acquaintances which was soul satisfying. Some of the stories were pathetic, some were sordid, some were humorous, but all of them illustrated phases of life in a country town. Perhaps this one about Ezra was the best.

When I left the Old Home Town Ezra was the possessor of a wife whom he had had for 25 years or more, and who was in fairly good condition, although a little deaf, as might well be, for no woman ever talked more fluently or more willingly than did her husband. For some reason she was taken ill and died, and Ezra mourned her for a time, not an exceedingly long time, and then he began to take notice and presently married again.

This wife No. 2 was, of course, a later model, but she, too, fell ill, and the physician advised an operation. Ezra hired an automobile and went with her to the hospital, where the ! physicians told him that there was little hope that she would recover. He went home sorrowfully, and finally he broke out to the driver in this way: "Good Lord, I've got to go through it is all again-bury this wife and then get another one!"

And he was a true prophet for things happened just as he predicted. -Hartford Courant.

ANY FOOL CAN FIND FAULT

Practically Impossible for Any Proposition, However Good, to Be Absolutely Without Flaw.

There is nothing however good but a person may find some fault in it if he is determined to do so. There is nothing perfect that is of man's making. There is nothing that man originates or performs but what contains more or less of his weakness. Worth, like water, must stay below the level of its source. It is quite natural that a person should dissent. The scientists dispute as much as the theologians. Every time one obtains a new standpoint he changes his opinion. Everytime he meets a friend he finds that he differs.

So we must make up our minds to disagree in the right spirit, observes the Ohio State Journal. If we don't do that and our disagreement falls into ill will and anxiety, then we become enemies of the truth and social pests besides. The person we earnestly and candidly disagree with may be right and ourselves wholly wrong. It would make us feel very absurd sometimes in the midst of a violent controversy to have a sudden light let in on the controversy and show our adversary entirely right. The safest thing, so far as one's conduct toward him is concerned is to remember he may be right and treat him accordingly.

Markings of Horse's Coat.

It is found that there is a very definite connection between the coat color of horses and the frequency with which white markings occur. Thus the latter are by far the most commonly associated with the chestnut color. And not only are they the most prevalent in chestnut horses, but it is also, of course, a well-known fact that the markings are apt to be more extended in nature in the case of this color than in that of any other. Chestnut, therefore, apparently possesses so to speak, a special affinity for these markings. Bay ranks next as regards the degree of frequency with which white markings appear in horses of this color, although it comes a good way behind chestnut in this respect. Then follows brown, while the white marks are met with less frequently among black and roan colored horses.

Why Strike Collapsed. Two telegraph operators worked in the office of the Milwaukee Free Press. Both were employed by the press association and not by the paper. They | came soused one Sunday night, decided to strike, making demands for more pay and shorter hours from the managing editor of the newspaper. They were told to make their petition | to their employers. The telegraphers retired for a council of war, put the strike into effect and decided to picket the office. The office had but one entrance, but there must be strategy; so one of the strikers posted himself directly in front of the office and the other around the corner, the two being out of sight of each other.

ITED STATES ARMY STAGES BIG CROSS-COUNTRY MOTOR DEMONSTRATION

The United States Army is to make the biggest good roads demonstration the country ever saw. An army motor truck train will start from the White House July 7 for San Francisco. It will follow the Lincoln Highway and make some detours however. The train includes five passenger cars, thirty-five trucks of all types, two ambulances, six motorcycles, two tank trucks, two kitchen trailers, two water tanks, one engineer shop truck, one officer work truck and one searchlight truck. In fact the people "back home" will see just what the Army had in France in motor equipment. Someone has said that the essence of true nobility is negrect of self. But that is not true, because selfpreservation is the first law of nature. But we are not to let our self- vanish away.—John Hall. love degenerate into Selfishness. You know Selfishness is that detestable vice which no one will forgive in others, but which no one is without in himself.

So it is then, that we are all looking out for No. 1. But in our dealing with others, with the world at large, we are to do as we would wish to be done by. We are not to go through the world playing the "grab game." We are to remember Christ's definition of "our neighbor" Home Coming celebration to be held -everybody.

have so much money-that they spend recklessly, pay any price asked, and the merchants, seeing they can get it, keep the price up, the higher price affording the larger profit—thus taking more than their share—and this especially to the distress of the poor. Are not such persons profiteering hogs?

One of the things that has been a cause of great distress to the poor man with a large family has been Ohio. shoes, and his meagre weekly wages not sufficient to get them, after paying rent and providing the merest necessaries of life for his family Why are the prices of shoes so high?

A Boston dispatch of yesterday said: Inquiry into the high cost of shoes by the county grand jury developed that some shoe workers had been earning $120 a week. These instances were few, but it was testified that many made $60 a week, while the average was about $40. Boys have been getting $30 a week. It was said that a pair of shoes sold by a manufacturer for $5.50 was displayed burst which swept over the Connells- but in a store 400 yards from the factory marked $12.

We submit to our readers whether these persons, taking more than their pled. The damage is estimated at share, were not contributing to the $100,000. high cost of living. But who is to blame? Where is the fault? Isn't it but natural for the workman to get the highest wages he can? You answer "sure."

Now then, as to shoes, doesn't it look as if the blame for the high prices comes square down on the rich who are fools enough to pay these big prices because they can, and this to the distress of the poor? The ridiculously large wages paid the workmen, according to this Boston dispatch, is because the rich buy the high priced shoes, and the cheaper grade shoes are kept higher than they should be because in this bad company.

But in this definition of "rich" pecple we must remember is included many "sudden rich," or temporarily rich, because of high wages. We saw a statement, the other day, that a man who was making $50 per week would have a fit if he couldn't spend all the $50 in the week. All such are to blame for the high prices.

What the nation needs is a big spell of Economy. Let the rich, and the near rich, wear their old shoes longer and refuse to buy new ones at the big prices, in the interest of the poor. It would be Patriotism to do it

First Safety Bicycles.

The first of the safety bicycles was put op the market in 1880. In this the high front wheel was reduced and the rear wheel was about two thirds the height of the front one. The machines with wheels of the same size appeared in 1885. Bicycling began to be popular about 1891, and the "craze" reached its height about 1895, when wheels had become low enough in price to be within the means of the multitude.

form I am absolutely opposed to compromise of any nature, or to resortng to the use of half measures. If these evils are real evils, then they should be eliminated; if they are not evils they should be left alone. In my opinion there is no middle course.

It is my belief that the trading stamp is a no greater evil than the tea and coffee peddling premium, or the coupon connected with merchandise, or the cash discount certificate. They are all absolutely a drain upon business and in my opinion should have no part in legitimate merchandising methods. Merchandise should be sold purely upon its merits, and the public should receive what it pays for and not be lured into buying any kind of merchandise which is sold upon condition that some extra value is given in the way of premiums, etc.

Of all floral festivities, Japan's Feast of the Cherry Blossom is the most generally observed. Practically every town and village throughout the land has its own particular cherry tree for honoring at this great occasion, but the most famous of them all is that at Kioto. BY JANE PHELPS.

AN UNPLEASANT SURPRISE AWAITS SADRA CHAPTER XLVII

Rose gushed abominably when Barrett called for us. She was so effusive in her thanks, taking all the honor of the invitation to herself in a way that really mortified and annoyed

Barrett complimented me, looking unutterable things with his eyes, then turned and said:

"If I may be so bold upon short, acquaintance, may I tell you also how charming you look, Miss Grandon?"

"Thank you, a woman is always delighted to be told she is charming," Rose replied, drooping a little curtesy and smiling at him in what she probably supposed was an irresistable manner. For a moment I felt almost sorry I had asked Rose to visit me. Then I remembered that were she not there I would not be able to go out with Barrett Edmonds.

We laughed and chatted all the way to the theater and between the acts. Barrett never left us, although the men all about seemed scarcely able to wait to go out the moment the curtain rang down. Everett never did so, and it pleased me that Barrett remained with us.

The play was delightful a society drama full of laughs. I enjoyed every minute of it. Barrett sat between us, and was perfectly impartial in his attentions. I saw several people I knew, who bowed to me.

"What lovely looking people you know," Rose said to me.

"That was Mrs. Sloane. A friend of Mr. Edmonds also," I explained. 1 know she is wondering who you are." "She is beautifully dressed."

"Yes, she is one of the best dressed women I know. Everett admires her

"Did you ever see such a devoted wife?" Rose asked, as she turned to Barrett. "If her husband admires anything it is perfectly all right with Sandra.'

"She certainly is a devoted wife. And Mr. Graham has exquisite taste," he replied with a meaning glance at me—a glance which I could not fail to interpret, although it had passed over

After the play Barrett urged us to go to supper. I refused although Rose looked pleadingly at me and remark-

The emphasis at first was on the boycott. The students formed bands of ten, each under a leader. pledged to do all in their power to prevent the use and sale of Japanese goods. These bands have been very useful in detecting attempts of merchants to import, or to sell such goods. The people in general followed them, one curious phase being that they nailed to telegraph poles in the native city of Shanghai quantities of things made in Japan, straw hats, wash basins, brushes, dolls, toys, mirrors, matting, tins of tooth powder, national wealth as a corruption fund and other articles too numerous to mention. Merchants made great bonfires of silks and salt fish worth thousands of dollars was thrown into the river. When the boycott became an assured habit, the next step was taken, the demand for the dismissal of the three traitors in Peking. Little attention was paid to the fact that the Japanese in some instances o put them on their own cans.

From every Chinese shop a white called for united action to save the country. Then the police of Peking arrested several hundred parading students, and the whole country blazed up. The next day Chinese shops in Shanghai were closed and on the doors of them all was a poster that said: "If the national traitors are not dismissed, we'll not open our doors." The Japanese here by that time were in a bad way, for they could buy no food, and the foreigners in general were soon affected for the markets closed, and no meat was to be had and very little vegetables. Then the workmen began to strike, and we were told that no laundry work could be done. It was hot weather then, and we needed that form of labor badly, and if that were not serious enough, there came a rumor that the Chinese employes of the waterworks company were about to strike, and no water would be available. Until this was dispelled, we kept the bath tubs and all available receptacles in the house filled with water. Since Shanghai is Finally the police prosecuted and fined some of those who made the poisoning charge, and with that the rumors in town suddenly ceased.

Our own feeling against the Japanese government was accentuated by receiving authentic news of the cruelties with which the popular government in Korea was put down, and of the attempts to hush these up. I have had a long talk from my friend, the pastor of the Japanese Christian church here on the whole matter. From him I judge that all the Japanese feel keenly the failure of Japan to get racial equality into the peace treaty. This of course, does not excuse the truly Prussian methods with which they are governing Korea, ror their past methods in Manchuria, nor the shameless outrage of their use of to support the military party in China, and bribe China's traitor officials. It simply gives them an excuse to pose as injured and innocent. Let them mend their ways before they claim racial equality as a right. My feeling of course, is only against the ruling party. I feel sure that the wiser and the better way will beadopted by them in time ,and that they will prove is the refusal of the Chinese to sign preserve any self respect at all. ### MUNICIPAL MARKET TO BE ESTABLISHED IN XENIA NEXT WEEK

A municipal market to be located in the vacant lot owned by H. L. Binder on the East Side of South Detroit stret, between the Gazette building and the Higgins and Phillips clothing store, and offering a place onder city supervision for hucksters and market men to sell their goods, has been arranged by City Manager Kenyon Riddle and will be started next year.

The establishment of a market is: direct result of the recommendation contained in the report of the grand jury in the profiteering probe, which brought out the fact that no hucksters were raising or selling goods in Xenia now, and urged that a market be established. The market will open for the first day on next Wednesday. The lot has been rented by the city and will be divided into booths, which will be sub-rented at the rate of $1 for each market day, to hucksters or others who wish to market their wares tried to market their goods under for- good friends of the Chinese. In teaching we can remember that most time canvass sunshades or awnings of the Japanese we know personally will be put up. The city will retain flag hung. The inscriptions on them are of the sort that gives excellent one of these booths which will be ocpromise for the future, and that not cupied by the man in charge of the distant, we hope. The latest phase market place, and which will be used to sell articles in small quantities the peace teaty, which action they brought in by farmers. For ten per were bound to take, if they were to cent of the amount sold for, the city will handle all sorts of saleable articles of food in this booth,

Each day before market day, the street in front of the market place will be flushed and cleaned, and "no "parking" signs will be put up to make the place as convenient as possible. In case there are no local hucksters who care to occupy the space provided by the city, the city will hire a truck and go through the county buying vegetables, fruits and produce which it will sell at a nominal cost to Xenia people. While the city will not attempt to govern the price charged by the hucksters at first, they will be expected to chea smaller amount then the establish ed merchants, because their overhead expense is practically nothing. In case they do not make a cut in their prices, the city will take some action in the matter to insure lower prices on goods sold in this manner.

The final establishment of a city market here is the result of the action of the city in passing an ordinance against displaying wares on the street, following action of the County Commissioners against the use of the court house square as a marketing place.

At the time the hucksters were driven from the Court House square there was a clash between them and officials, during which the city attempted to rent the Binder lot and establish the merchants there. The latter refused however, although Mr. Binder offered to rent the lot for $1 a week. The $1 fee stood in the way of a market for Xenia at that time, although these merchants do not live in the city as a rule, pay no taxes here and have no rent or overhead expense. Thus the matter of a market here then fell through with. The recommendation of the Grand jury however, forced the issue, and the city authorities are now determined to start a market if they have to buy the goods and sell them themselves.

Another title has been added to City Auditor G. H. Stokes, and he will he Market Master, and will issue licenses, and rent the booths and keen

St. Botolph's Town.

Boston or St. Botolph's Town is a seaport in Lincolnshire, England, on the River Witham, and four miles from its mouth, with a wharfage of 2,330 feet. In the days of the Plantaganets it was one of the chief British seaports, but the silting in of the river has been an obstacle to its growth of late years, almost continual dredging being necessary to keep a passage to the sea, even for small vessels. Its church tower, St. Botolph's, is a wellknown conspicuous landmark, depended upon also by mariners at sea.

Pulque Trains in Mexico.

Pulque, the national drink of Mexico, is made from the juice of the maguey plant, large tracts of which are cultivated outside the City of Mexico. As a rule there are about eight hundred plants to the acre. The juice is extracted by the peons. It is shipped into town in long trains much like our milk trains here. The white liquid tastes like yeast and the consumption is so great that it is equivalent to two quarts a day for each person.

When Robert Wayne was amid poverty and grief over the recent death the future of his daughter Viola, a girl of sixteen, he received word that ner, who arrived home from Columhe had been left 80 acres of land near

"I am so glad," enthused Viola. "You have had to work so hard and so long in the city here. Oh, father! think, think, if it is not already a nice little farm, we can make it one. with birds and flowers and everything beautiful about us."

"Yes," replied Mr. Wayne, new ambition kindling in his eyes. "We will make the wilderness blossom fike the

Robert Wayne went to visit his prized acquisition, to have his high spirits considerably dampened. Walton was a small, quiet village, and the 80 acres were located just beyond its limits. The major portion of it had been a limestone quarry, which had been excavated to the depth of over a hundred feet to provide a county with roadbed material. It had been abandoned and nearly filled up with

Mr. Wayne found that only 20 acres of the tract could be made available. There had been a frame structure at the edge of the quarry. A helper was MEN LEARN BARBER TRADE-Bet hired to dismantle it, the material removed and a habitable shelter constructed that would answer until a real house could be built.

> A new element, and a displeasing one, came into their lives with the appearance of a young man who persistently forced his attentions upon Viola. This was Martin Freer, who lived a mile distant. He and his family had reputations none too savory as to honesty and industry, and there were sundry hints that it was a puzzle how Freer had so much money to throw away, while he never seemed to do any work.

> "I don't like this young fellow, Viola," Mr. Wayne said. "I hope you will not encourage his visits."

stand that his calls are not welcome," replied Viola.

Freer was an audacious, and at times offensive, person, with a forceful, aggressive way about him that carried him through in most instances. He had the sense to discern, however, that he had created an antipathy against himself in Mr. Wayne, and that Viola was cold and repellant. He boasted of a very rich uncle abroad, who sent him fabulous sums monthly. "I believe the old quarry is haunted," Mr. Wayne told Viola one day. "Last night was the fourth or fifth time I have been awakened by queer sounds in its direction. Strange calls, and heavy rolling, and then splashing echoes." But both forgot about this amid the pressure of their home duties. About this time a new element came into the quiet lives of father and daughter. · A pleasant, manly young fellow, Barton Lee, came to Walton to pass a month's vacation, as he gave it out. He got acquainted with the Waynes, and became a welcome vistin Freer. One morning early he appeared with a gravity of manner that at once told Viola that the visit had

"Mr. Wayne," he said, "I have news of some importance to communicate to you. First, I wish to make the confession that I am not a simple tourist, but came down here as a representative of the state insurance commission.'

"You mean?" asked Mr. Wayne. "That for over a year some forty automobiles a month have been stolen in the city. Many of them have disappeared utterly. I received a tip and came down here to watch Martin Freer, who has been a member of the gang who have run the machines out to Walton and dumped them into the old quarry."

"Why, what for? Incredible!" gasped Mr. Wayne.

"It was done so that unscrupulous owners could thereby claim full value from the insurance companies. Freer is in jail, and has confessed. At least fifty cars lie hidden under the water of the old quarry." Barton Lee had completed his mission and departed for the city. Viola missed him greatly. Her heart sang with joy when he returned.

"I have made an arrangement with the insurance company to go into the salvage business, you and I, Mr. Wayne," announced Lee. "The cars are wrecks and good only for what they will bring las junk. The comraines give us half of what we realize, plus the cost of raising, dismantling and shipping the parts to secondhand dealers."

It was an ideal partnership, and it led to an ideal romance. Money there was in the proposition, and love, and what more could happy Viola Wayne desire?

SCHLESINGER HAS BAKERS INDICTED AT STATE CAPITAL

Columbus, O., Aug. 23.-Apparently bread prices here will not be changed soon, despite the arrest of five local bakers charged with violating the Valentine ant-trust act by controling and raising prices. The indicted bakers are expected to put up legal fights. They claim they have done nothing wrong. Proseuting Attorney Schlesinger claimed that bakers in the alleged combine sell to grocers for 9 cents pound loaves retailing at 11 cents and charge the grocers 12 cents for a pound and a half loaf retailing at 16 cents while independent bakers are selling for a penny less on each According to Schlesinger, the in dicted bakers tried to coerce independent bakers to raise prices. He claimed prices were advanced by all indicted companies at the same time and that the cost of flour dropped when bread prices went up.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 23 .- Officials of he American Express Company were today apprised of the arrest at Denver of Walter R. O'Rourke, one of the trio sought in connection with the theft of $43,000 from the Akron office of the express company.

Benjamin E. Monroe, a former clerk of the company at Akron, is being sought for the actual theft of the money and O'Rourke is wanted as an accomplice. A woman is also being sought.

According to special agents for the American Express Company here, who have the case in charge, O'Rourke will be brought back immediately to face room 2 in the Y. M. C A. According to the operatives who have been working on the case, O'Rourke's home is in Cleveland although just prior to the robbery he had spent some time in Toledo.

About the time of the robbery, ac cording to evidence secured by detectives, O'Rourke went to Akron with an automobile, acting ostensibly as an automobile salesman. Following the theft it is charged that O'Rourke, Monroe and the woman in the case, who passed by the name of Watson in Akron, motored to Cleveland and remained here some days.

Harry O'Rourke, a brother, is already under arrest, according to officials and while they declined to discuss the possibility it is reported that other arrests are imminent in the

EZRA PROVED TRUE PROPHET

His Prediction That Funeral and Marriage Were Before Him Turned Out to Be Exact.

Last week a friend drifted in from the Old Home Town, now 20 years back of me, and we had a season of gossip about the old acquaintances which was soul' satisfying. Some of the stories were pathetic, some were sordid, some were humorous, but all of them illustrated phases of life in a country town. Perhaps this one about Ezra was the best.

When I left the Old Home Town Ezra was the possessor of a wife whom he had had for 25 years or whom he had had for 25 years or more, and who was in fairly good condition, although a little deaf, as might well be, for no woman ever talked more fluently or more willingly than did her husband. For some reason she was taken ill and died, and Ezra mourned her for a time, not an exceedingly long time, and then he began to take notice and presently married again.

This wife No. 2 was, of course, a later model, but she, too, fell ill, and the physician advised an operation. Ezra hired an automobile and went with her to the hospital, where the physicians told him that there was little hope that she would recover. He went home sorrowfully, and finally he broke out to the driver in this way: "Good Lord, I've got to go through it all again-bury this wife and then get another one!"

And he was a true prophet for things happened just as he predicted. -Hartford Courant.

ANY FOOL CAN FIND FAULT

Practically Impossible for Any Proposition, However Good, to Be Absolutely Without Flaw.

There is nothing however good but person may find some fault in it if he is determined to do so. There is nothing perfect that is of man's making. There is nothing that man originates or performs but what contains more or less of his weakness. Worth, like water, must stay below the level of its source. It is quite natural that a person should dissent. The scientists dispute as much as the theologians. Every time one obtains a new standpoint he changes his opinion. Everytime he meets a friend he finds that he differs.

So we must make up our minds to disagree in the right spirit, observes the Ohio State Journal. If we don't do 🖠 that and our disagreement falls into ill will and anxiety, then we become enemies of the truth and social pests besides. The person we earnestly and candidly disagree with may be right and ourselves wholly wrong. It would make us feel very absurd sometimes in the midst of a violent controversy, to have a sudden light let in on the controversy and show our adversary entirely right. The safest thing, so far as one's conduct toward him is concerned is to remember he may be right and treat him accordingly.

Markings of Horse's Coat.

It is found that there is a very definite connection between the coat color of horses and the frequency with which white markings occur. Thus the latter are by far the most commonly associated with the chestnut color. And not only are they the most prevalent in chestnut horses, but it is also, of course, a well-known fact that the markings are apt to be more extended in nature in the case of this color than in that of any other. Chestnut, therefore, apparently possesse so to speak, a special affinity for these markings. Bay ranks next as regards the degree of frequency with which white markings appear in horses of this color, although it comes a good way behind chestnut in this respect. Then follows brown, while the white marks are met with less frequently among black and roan colored horses.

Why Strike Collapsed.

Two telegraph operators worked in the office of the Milwaukee Free Press. Both were employed by the press association and not by the paper. They came soused one Sunday night, decided to strike, making demands for more pay and shorter hours from the managing editor of the newspaper. They were told to make their petition | to their employers. The telegraphers retired for a council of war, put the strike into effect and decided to picket the office. The office had but one entrance, but there must be strategy; so one of the strikers posted himself directly in front of the office and the other around the corner, the two being out of sight of each other,

Then each had the same hunch of getting another drink. They left their posts and that was the end of the strike. Other operators were called in and the wires buzzed merrily on .- !

> That is what is meant by the creation of the spirit of enterprise in a community. A city which has once acquired this spirit will not let it die

A well named, well planned Chamber of Commerce provides the city with an organization and the machinery to make use of the best thought and energy of the citizens. A disorganized factory is a menance to the industrial life of a city. It is a liability. An unorganized community is a liability to the country.

Every man and woman has a surplus of time and strength out of which to give his or her duty. Yet it is common experience to be told, when asking a citizen for some service for the common good that he is too busy with his own affairs.

The accomplishments of a well organized Chamber of Commerce will quickly show that man that he is not too busy with his own affairs to give a little time and energy to his community. He will not be long in agreeing with the man who invented the "phrase' Enthusiasm is contageouslet's have an epidemic, the best kind of an epidemic a city can have.

Men working together every day for a common cause learn to give.

The accomplishments of a well organized Chamber of Commerce bring immediate and tangible rewards to a city-and its people. The store keeper, the factory owner, the physician and lawyer, even the newsboy sense the usefulness of a good Chamber of Commerce; they know it builds up the business of the city by making it a better place to do business in, and it adds to the population by making the city a better place to live in.

ONE WAY TO OVERCOME H. C. L.

Someone has said that the essence of true nobility is negrect of self. But that is not true, because selfpreservation is the first law of nathat shall never decay or wax old or ture. But we are not to let our selflove degenerate into Selfishness. You know Selfishness is that detestable vice which no one will forgive in others, but which no one is without in himself.

So it is then, that we are all looking out for No. 1. But in our dealing with others, with the world at large, we are to do as we would wish to be done by. We are not to go through the world playing the "grab game." We are to remember Christ's definition of "our neighbor" -everybody,

Are not such persons profiteering hogs?

One of the things that has been a cause of great distress to the poor A. Kelly, North King street, Xenia, man with a large family has been Ohio. the price of shoes. A grief to him It is a difficult task to secure the names of all the soldiers, sailors or important question now before the at most held me back. Rose looked daggers her hands full of chocolates. A Boston dispatch of yesterday said: Inquiry into the high cost of whose honor the home coming celebra- stamps, premiums, coupons, cash dis- change in her." veloped that some shoe workers had been earning $120 a week. These instances were few, but it was testified that many made $60 a week, while the average was about $40. Boys have been getting $30 a week. It was said that a pair of shoes sold by a manufacturer for $5.50 was displayed in a store 400 yards from the factory marked $12.

We submit to our readers whether these persons, taking more than their pled. The damage is estimated at share, were not contributing to the $100,000. high cost of living. But who is to blame? Where is the fault? Isn't it but natural for the workman to get the highest wages he can? You answer "sure."

Now then, as to shoes, doesn't it look as if the blame for the high prices comes square down on the rich who are fools enough to pay these big prices because they can, and this to the distress of the poor? The ridiculously large wages paid the workmen, according to this Boston dispatch, is because the rich buy the high priced shoes, and the cheaper grade shoes are kept higher than they should be because in this bad company.

But in this definition of "rich" people we must remember is included many "sudden rich," or temporarily rich, because of high wages. We saw a statement, the other day, that a man who was making $50 per week would have a fit if he couldn't spend all the $50 in the week. All such are to blame for the high prices.

What the nation needs is a big spell of Economy. Let the rich, and the near rich, wear their old shoes longer and refuse to buy new ones at the big prices, in the interest of the poor. It would be Patriotism to do it

First Safety Bicycles.

The first of the safety bicycles was put on the market in 1880. In this the high front wheel was reduced and the rear wheel was about two thirds the height of the front one. The machines with wheels of the same size appeared in 1885. Bicycling began to be popular about 1891, and the "craze" reached its height about 1895, when wheels had become low enough in price to be within the means of the multitude.

It is my belief that the trading stamp is a no greater evil than the tea and coffee peddling premium, or the coupon connected with merchandise, or the cash discount certificate. They are all absolutely a drain upon business and in my opinion should have no part in legitimate merchandising methods. Merchandise should be sold purely upon its merits, and the public should receive what it pays for and not be lured into buying any kind of merchandise which is sold upon condition that some extra value is given in the way of premiums, etc.

AN UNPLEASANT SURPRISE AWAITS SADRA CHAPTER XLVII

Rose gushed abominably when Barrett called for us. She was so effusive in her thanks, taking all the honor of the invitation to herself in a way that really mortified and annoyed

Barrett complimented me, looking unutterable things with his eyes, then turned and said: "If I may be so bold upon short."

acquaintance, may I tell you also how charming you look, Miss Grandon?" "Thank you, a woman is always de-lighted to be told she is charming," Rose replied, drooping a little curtesy and smiling at him in what she probably supposed was an irresistable manner. For a moment I felt almost sorry I had asked Rose to visit me. Then I remembered that were she not there I would not be able to go out with Barrett Edmonds.

We laughed and chatted all the way to the theater and between the acts. Barrett never left us, although the men all about seemed scarcely able to wait to go out the moment the curtain rang down. Everett never did so, and it pleased me that Barrett remained with us.

The play was delightful a society drama full of laughs. I enjoyed every minute of it. Barrett sat between us, and was perfectly impartial in his attentions. I saw several people I knew, who bowed to me.

"What lovely looking people you now," Rose said to me. "That was Mrs. Sloane. A friend of Mr. Edmonds also," I explained, 1

"Did you ever see such a devoted wife?" Rose asked, as she turned to Barrett. "If her husband admires anything it is perfectly all right with Sandra.'

"She certainly is a devoted wife. And Mr. Graham has exquisite taste," he replied with a meaning glance at me-a glance which I could not fail to interpret, although it had passed over Rose's head.

After the play Barrett urged us to go to supper. I refused although Rose looked pleadingly at me and remark-'It is so late we might as well stay out a little later," The play had been

MICHELLIS Outer Circumference around Inflated Tube 107" 85 Difference

Where are you going to get those

Any inner tube when inflated is radically longer around its outer circumference than around its inner circumference as is shown by the illustration above.

Recognizing this basic principle, Michelin Scientists have built this difference into the Michelin Tube by making it ring-shaped.

But every other tube is made perfectly straight-it's outer circumference being of practically the same length as the inner circumference.

Since all tubes when in service must fill the inside of the casing, it is obvious that straight tubes must be stretched on the outer circumference or compressed next to the rim or both, whereas Michelin Tubes, being shaped to fit, are free from all strains of tension or compression.

The emphasis at first was on the boycott. The students formed bands of ten, each under a leader, pledged to do all in their power to prevent the use and sale of Japanese goods. These bands have been very useful in detecting attempts of merchants to import, or to sell such goods. The people in general followed them, one curious phase being that they nailed to telegraph poles in the native city of Shanghai quantities of things made in Japan, straw hats, wash basins, brushes, dolls, toys, mirrors, matting, tins of tooth powder, national wealth as a corruption fund and other articles too numerous to mention. Merchants made great bonfires of silks and salt fish worth thousands of dollars was thrown into the river. When the boycott became an assured habit, the next step was taken, the demand for the dismissal of the three traitors in Peking. Little attention was paid to the fact that the Japanese in some instances to put them on their own cans.

country. Then the police of Peking arrested several hundred parading students, and the whole country blazed up. The next day Chinese shops in Shanghai were closed and on the doors of them all was a poster that said: "If the national traitors are not dismissed, we'll not open our doors." The Japanese here by that time were torials, and upheld the best traditions in a bad way, for they could buy no food, and the foreigners in general were soon affected for the markets closed, and no meat was to be had and very little vegetables. Then the workmen began to strike, and we were told that no laundry work could be done. It was hot weather then, and we needed that form of labor badly, and if that were not serious enough, there came a rumor that the Chinese employes of the waterworks company were about to strike, and no water would be available. Until this was dispelled, we kept the bath tubs and all available receptacles in the house filled with water. Our own feeling against the Japan-ese government was accentuated by receiving authentic news of the cruelties with which the popular government in Korea was put down, and of the attempts to hush these up. I have had a long talk from my friend, the pastor of the Japanese Christian church here on the whole matter. From him I judge that all the Japanese feel keenly the failure of Japan to get racial equality into the peace treaty. This of course, does not excuse the truly Prussian methods with which they are governing Korea, ror their past methods in Manchuria, nor the shameless outrage of their use of to support the military party in China, and bribe China's traitor officials. It simply gives them an excuse to pose as injured and innocent. Let them mend their ways before they claim racial equality as a right. My feeling of course, is only against the ruling party. I feel sure that the wiser and the better way will beadopted by them in time, and that they will prove exhort with all long suffering and distant, we hope. A municipal market to be located in the vacant lot owned by H. L. Binder on the East Side of South Detroit stret, between the Gazette building and the Higgins and Phillips clothing store, and offering a place under city supervision for hucksters and market men to sell their goods, has been ar-ranged by City Manager Kenyon Riddle and will be started next year. The establishment of a market is a direct result of the recommendation contained in the report of the grand jury in the profiteering probe, which brought out the fact that no hucksters were raising or selling goods in Xenia now, and urged that a market be established. The market will open for the first day on next Wednesday.

The lot has been rented by the city and will be divided into booths, which will be sub-rented at the rate of $1 for each market day, to hucksters or others who wish to market their wares tried to market their goods under for- good friends of the Chinese. The in this manner. Tables will be fureign labels. The mished by the city for the merchants to display their wares and gravel walks will be provided through the teaching we can remember that most time canvass sunshades or awnings From every Chinese shop a white of the Japanese we know personally will be put up. The city will retain flag hung. The inscriptions on them are of the sort that gives excellent one of these booths which will be occalled for united action to save the promise for the future, and that not cupied by the man in charge of the market place, and which will be used is the refusal of the Chinese to sign to sell articles in small quantities the peace beaty, which action they brought in by farmers. For ten per were bound to take, if they were to cent of the amount sold for, the city preserve any self respect at all. will handle all sorts of saleable articles of food in this booth.

Each day before market day, the street in front of the market place will be flushed and cleaned, and "no "parking" signs will be put up to make the place as convenient as possible. In case there are no local hucksters who care to occupy the space provided by the city, the city will hire a truck and go through the county buying vegetables, fruits and produce which it will sell at a nominal cost to Xenia people. While the city will not attempt to govern the price charged by the hucksters at first, they will be expected to che a smaller amount then the established merchants, because their overhead expense is practically nothing. In case they do not make a cut in their prices, the city will take some action in the matter to insure lower prices on goods sold in this manner.

The final establishment of a city market here is the result of the action of the city in passing an ordinance against displaying wares on the street, following action of the County Commissioners against the use of the court house square as a marketing place.

At the time the hucksters were driven from the Court House square there was a clash between them and officials, during which the city attempted to rent the Binder lot and establish the merchants there. The latter refused however, although Mr. Binder offered to rent the lot for $1 a week. The $1 fee stood in the way of a market for Xenia at that time, although these merchants do not live in the city as a rule, pay no taxes here and have no rent or overhead expense. Thus the matter of a market here then fell through with. The recommendation of the Grand jury however, forced the issue, and city authorities are now determined to start a market if they have to buy the goods and sell them themselves. Another title has been added to City Auditor G. H. Stokes, and he will

St. Botolph's Town.

Boston or St. Botolph's Town is a seaport in Lincolnshire, England, on the River Witham, and four miles from its mouth, with a wharfage of 2,330 feet. In the days of the Plantaganets it was one of the chief British seaports, but the silting in of the river has been an obstacle to its growth of late years, almost continual dredging being necessary to keep a passage to the sea, even for small vessels. Its church tower, St. Botolph's, is a wellknown conspicuous landmark, depended upon also by mariners at sea.

A new development in the alloying of aluminum with other metals has just been accomplished by the production of "silverite." This metal is something entirely new and is composed of a mixture of aluminum and copper, zine and steel in varying proportions, according to requirements. The alloying of steel with aluminum is somewhat startling and at first thought seems to be impossible, yet it is suc-

Pulque Trains in Mexico.

Pulque, the national drink of Mexico, is made from the juice of the maguey plant, large tracts of which are cultivated outside the City of Mexico. As a rule there are about eight hundred plants to the acre. The juice is extracted by the peons. It is shipped into town in long trains much like our milk trains here. The white liquid tastes like yeast and the consumption is so great that it is equivalent to two quarts a day for each person.

"Yes," replied Mr. Wayne, new ambition kindling in his eyes. "We will make the wilderness blossom fike the rose!

Robert Wayne went to visit his prized acquisition, to have his high spirits considerably dampened. Walton was a small, quiet village, and the 80 acres were located just beyond its limits. The major portion of it had been a limestone quarry, which had been excavated to the depth of over a hundred feet to provide a county with roadbed material. A new element, and a displeasing one, came into their lives with the appearance of a young man who persistently forced his attentions upon Viola. This was Martin Freer, who lived a mile distant. He and his family had reputations none too savory as to honesty and industry, and there were sundry hints that it was a puzzle how Freer had so much money to throw away, while he never seemed to do any work.

"I don't like this young fellow, Viola," Mr. Wayne said. "I hope you PUBLIC SALE-Aug. 27th at 10 a.m. on farm known as the A. J. Richardwill not encourage his visits. son farm, 4 miles s. e. Xenia on Hoop road. Two horses, 33 head hogs, 20 sheep, farming implements, harness

He boasted of a very rich uncle abroad, who sent him fabulous sums monthly.

"I believe the old quarry is haunted," Mr. Wayne told Viola one day. "Last night was the fourth or fifth time I have been awakened by queer sounds in its direction. Strange calls, and heavy rolling, and then splashing echoes." But both forgot about this amid the pressure of their home duties. About this time a new element came into the quiet lives of father and daughter. A pleasant, manly young fellow, Barton Lee, came to Walton to pass a month's vacation, as he gave it out. He got acquainted with the itor, much to the discomfiture of Martin Freer. One morning early he appeared with a gravity of manner that at once told Viola that the visit had

"Mr. Wayne," he said, "I have news of some importance to communicate to you. First, I wish to make the confession that I am not a simple tourist, but came down here as a representative of the state insurance commission."

"You mean?" asked Mr. Wayne. "That for over a year some forty automobiles a month have been stolen in the city. Many of them have disappeared utterly. I received a tip and came down here to watch Martin Freer, who has been a member of the gang who have run the machines out to Walton and dumped them into the old quarry.'

"Why, what for? Incredible!" gasped Mr. Wayne.

"It was done so that unscrupulous owners could thereby claim full value from the insurance companies. Freer is in jail, and has confessed. At least fifty cars lie hidden under the water of the old quarry." Barton Lee had completed his mission and departed for the city. Viola missed him greatly. Her heart sang with joy when he returned. "I have made an arrangement with the insurance company to go into the salvage business, you and I, Mr. Wayne," announced Lee. "The cars are wrecks and good only for what they will bring has junk. The commarries give us half of what we real-Aze, plus the cost of raising, dismantling and shipping the parts to secondhand dealers."

I'm glad I saved my pennies up.
My happiness to crown;
For now, I'll have a dandy time,
The circus is in town.

After the meal her mother, pointing to the pile of pits on Mildred's plate, asked:

"How could you make such a pig of yourself? I should think you would be ashamed to see so many pits, and ashamed to have others see them."

Mildred hung her head and replied: I was. That was the reason I threw all the rest of them on the floor."

The burglar had entered the house as quietly as possible, but his shoes were not padded, and they made some noise. He had just reached the door of the bed room when he heard some one moving in the bed, as if about to get up and he paused. The sound of a woman's voice floated to his ears. "If you don't take off your boots when you come into this house," it said, "there's going to be trouble, and a lot of it. Here it's been raining for three hours, and you dare to tramp over carpets with your muddy boots on. Go downstairs and take them off this minute." He went downstairs without a word, but he didn't take off his boots.

Instead he went straight out into the night again, and the pal, who was waiting for him. saw a tear glisten in his eye.

"I can't rob that house" he said. "It reminds me of home."

A Chicago boy, who had the good fortune to return in good shape from his thrilling experience with the marines at Chateau Thierry. fras prevailed upon by some girl friends to relate his experiences there.

Quite diffidently he recounted what he remembered of the fighting at the point where he was stationed. "We were having a terrible time," he said, until the French brought up their

Whereupon one of the girls exclaimed: "I think it is so splendid for men of that age to be fighting, don't you?"
